Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Sunday 17 Oct 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rain dying out during the day. Dry, brighter Northern Isles.

Today:
Cloudy, wet start this morning but the rain becoming light and patchy with drier weather developing this afternoon. However some light rain will linger across the northeast. Dry, brighter over Northern Isles with brighter interludes developing in Southwest this afternoon.

Tonight:
Rather cloudy and mild with some mist and cloud cloud and patchy drizzle. The drizzle will be mostly over the high ground of south and east Scotland. Strengthening southeasterly winds.

Monday:
Mainly dry, rather cloudy during morning. Some bright spells. Rain reaching West Coast by midday, extending eastwards during afternoon and evening. Mild with fresh southerly winds, strong along West Coast.

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Mostly cloudy and mild with outbreaks of rain. The rain becoming persistent and heavy at times on Wednesday. Drier, brighter, colder weather following during Thursday with showers in the north.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.